a romance and an adventure a rumination on royalty and religion in 18th century portugal and a bitterly ironic comment on the uses of power the new york times portugal 1711 the portuguese king promises the greedy prelates of the church an expansive new convent should they intercede with god to give him an heir a lonely priest works in maniacal solitude on his passarola a heretical flying machine he

as the inquisition rages an extraordinary trinity struggle to realise a creation that will fly in the face of the monstrous vanity of church and state in early 18th century lisbon baltasar a soldier who has lost his left hand in battle falls in love with blimunda a young girl with visionary powers from the day that he follows her home from the auto da fe where his mother is burned at the stake the two are bound body and soul by a love of unassailable strength a third party shares their supper that evening padre bartolomeu lourenco whose fantasy is to invent a flying machine as the crown and the church clash they pursue his impossible not to mention heretical dream of flight in a 1987 interview josé saramago eloquently expressed what could be considered his political philosophical manifesto human beings should not content themselves with the role of mere observers they bear a responsibility to the world they must actively engage and intervene in 1998 the celebrated writer was honoured with the nobel prize for literature so saramago did not only as a human being and a citizen but also as an artist refuse to be a passive observer despite his profound and always critical pessimism he tirelessly propelled both his public and artistic persona toward impactful actions and interventions showcasing an unwavering dedication to reshaping the world this volume seeks to delve into this facet of his legacy exploring it from diverse political and philosophical perspectives an unassuming family struggles to keep up with the ruthless pace of progress in a genuinely brilliant novel from a nobel prize winner chicago tribune a los angeles times best book of the year and a new york times notable book cipriano algor an elderly potter lives with his daughter marta and her husband marçal in a small village on the outskirts of the center an imposing complex of shops apartments and offices marçal works there as a security guard and cipriano drives him to work each day before delivering his own humble pots and jugs on one such trip he is told not to make any more deliveries people prefer plastic apparently unwilling to give up his craft cipriano tries his hand at making ceramic dolls astonishingly the center places an order for hundreds and cipriano and marta set to work until the order is cancelled and the penniless trio must move from the village into the center when mysterious sounds of digging emerge from beneath their new apartment cipriano and marçal investigate what they find transforms the family s life in a novel that is both irrepressibly funny the christian science monitor and a triumph the washington post book world the struggle of the individual against bureaucracy and anonymity is one of the great subjects of modern literature and saramago is often matched with kafka as one of its premier exponents apt as the comparison is it doesn t convey the warmth and rueful human dimension of novels like blindness and all the names those qualities are particularly evident in his latest brilliant dark allegory which links the encroaching sterility of modern life to the parable of plato s cave a remarkably generous and eloquent novel publishers weekly translated from the portuguese by margaret jull costa for many decades josé saramago has been a staunch defender of the role of literature to both serve and be perceived as public discourse when in october 1998 he became the first portuguese language author to be awarded the nobel prize for literature his conviction was supported by the assurance that at any rate this particular writer s literary discourse was guaranteed to be widely and globally publicized if as wlad godzich has claimed the severely limited possibility of public discourse in the contemporary world is compensated by the ever multiplying variety of ways to publicize discourses workshop saramago has taken full advantage of the opportunities offered in this respect by the nobel prize as probably the most effective institutionalized instrument of publicity that high literary discourse which is produced worldwide has at its annual disposal his international visibility greatly amplified saramago could be seen in the last two years shuttling the globe and making globally publicized statements on behalf of the many political causes that have attracted his attention and support publisher s description the contributors to this book attempt to describe analyze and interpret the literary events and practices that characterize the two
